RESPONDUS LOCKDOWN BROWSER ON A CHROMEBOOK

1. When you log in to your Chromebook, if you are using a Clemson Google account (username@g.clemson.edu), you will not be able to install the Respondus Lockdown Browser. For security reasons, Clemson has turned off the ability to install it. So you will need to create a new account for your Chromebook using a personal Google account that is something like tiger@gmail.com. If you already have another Google account, you can use that. If you do not have one, you may need to go to google.com and create an account to use. Once you have logged in using a personal gmail account, you may proceed to the steps below.

2. Go to: <https://www.clemson.edu/online/tools/responduslockdown.html> and click on Download.

What Is Respondus LockDown Browser and Respondus Monitor?

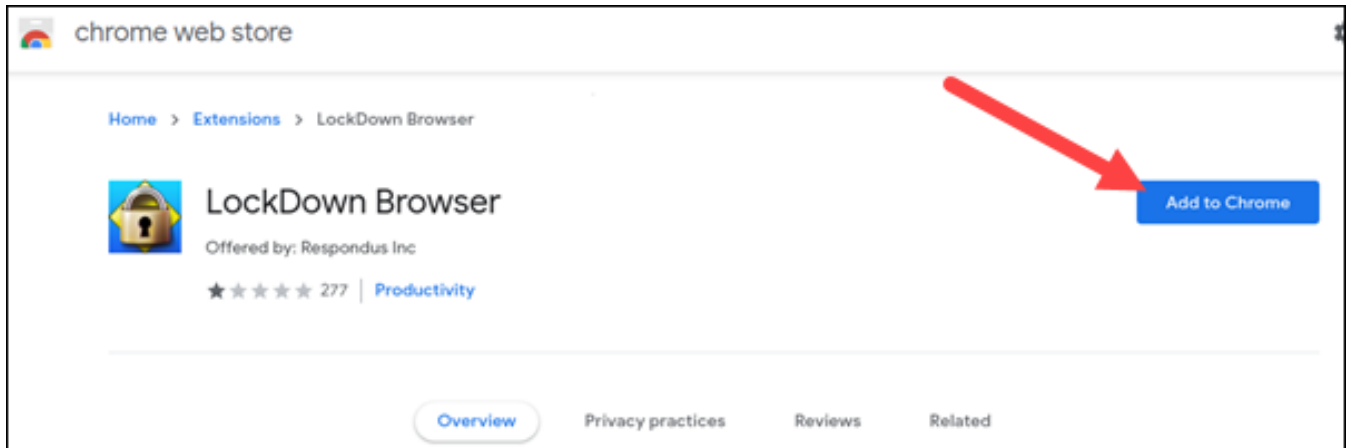

Categories: Assessment Tools

Respondus LockDown Browser (LDB) is a secure browser that allows teachers to administer tests and quizzes on Canvas while also preventing students from printing, copying, going to other websites, or accessing other applications.

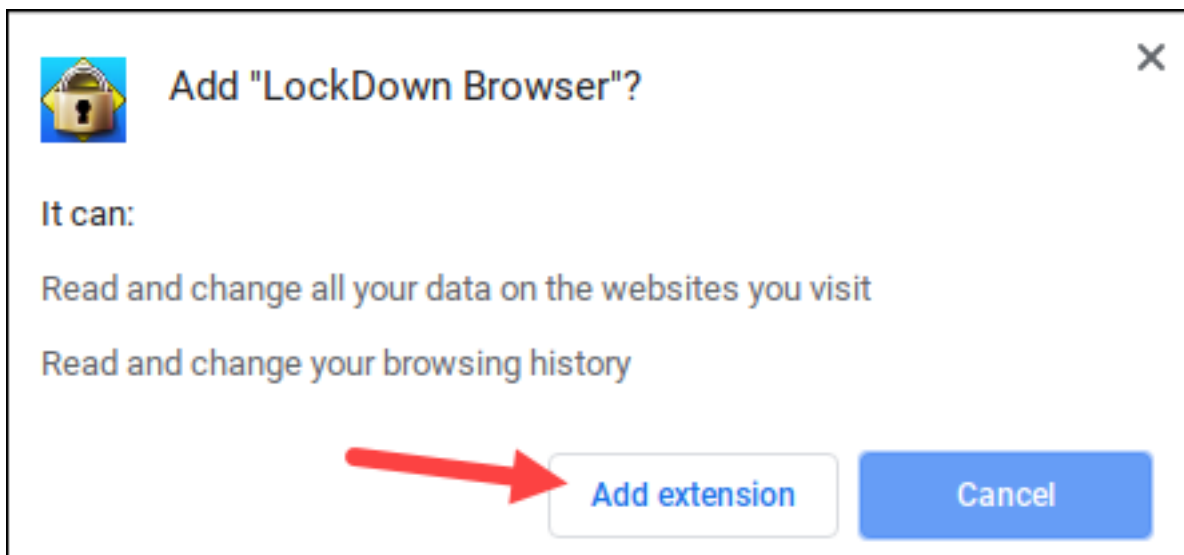

Respondus Monitor is Respondus LDB plus webcam monitoring. At the start of exams, Respondus Monitor asks students to confirm their identity and verify the appropriateness of their testing environment. During the exam, Respondus Monitor records the student's webcam. This recording is examined by a Respondus' artificial intelligence (AI) to generate an integrity report. Faculty can review the recording to verify the AI's findings.

3. Click on Add to Chrome.

4. Click on Add extension.

5. Once it is added to your Chrome, it will open a Respondus installation confirmation page. Close the browser and reopen it.

6. Note that you will now see the Respondus Lockdown browser in your Chrome Extensions – and depending on your browser, you may see the icon for it in the upper right-hand part of the screen.

7. Go to Canvas and click on the test that requires the Lockdown Browser. The lockdown browser will open with the test (and your other browser will no longer be available).
